What is Falun Gong?

Falun Gong, also known as Falun Dafa, is an ancient self-improvement practice of mind, body and spirit guided by the principles of Truthfulness, Compassion and Tolerance. There are five meditative exercises to help relieve stress, and gain energy and inner peace. It was introduced to the public in China by Mr. Li Hongzhi in 1992. It has helped over 100 million people in over 80 countries to gain health.

Why the Persecution?

The Chinese Communist Party (CCP) is notorious for trying to control people's minds. It promotes atheism and persecutes all spiritual and religious groups. Realizing that Falun Gong was the largest and most rapidly growing spiritual group in China, the CCP, led by then-President Jiang Zemin, launched a brutal crackdown in July 1999.

constitute at least 1/2 of the 250,000 officially recorded inmates in forced labor camps.

Chinese mobs attack Falun Gong practitioners in New York.

For decades, the Chinese communist regime has worked to inject its influence in other nations through local Chinese communities. A huge network of political alliances, student organizations and social clubs has been established in the United States, all loyal to the regime. This network can be manipulated by the regime to do its bidding whenever it needs to. Its presence was on display in recent attacks on Falun Gong in New York.

China's communist regime employs propaganda, deception, threats and money to manipulate Chinese nationals to do their bidding worldwide.
